

Business Problem:

In the Yonkers city of New York, there is a lack of data as to which region populates the most restaurants. This can hurt food enthusiasts who want to settle there as well as those who prefer eating a diverse meal at restaurants, since they have no way of knowing the optimal place to settle for the most restaurants if they wish to be able to access the most amount of restaurants near their region.